

Abstract

The present invention relates to functional elements that comprise microstructures containing biofunctionalized nanoparticles arranged on a carrier, a method for the production of these functional elements and the use thereof.